A Member of the Federal Reserve Bank.

ONGRESS recently passed a law establishing a central Federal Reserve Bank at Washington City, and something like twelve reserve or Regional Banks in other parts of the United States, These Federal Reserve Banks were organized to prevent panics and to strengthen the Banks of the Country, and any

National Bank has the right to become a member of one of these Regional Banks, by taking an interest, or rather by buying some of the stock of the Re-

The First National Bank, of Barbourville, Kentucky, has made application to become a member of one of these United States Reserve Banks, and its application has been accepted, and it will become a member just as soon as the New Banking Law is put into operation. The First National Bank is the first Bank in this section to become a member of the United States Reserve Bank, so that in the future this Bank will have the backing and support of the United States Reserve Bank. We are glad to see this strong Banking institution take this forward step. This puts the Federal Reserve Bank at Washington as well as the other reserve Regional Banks, of the United States, behind the First National Bank. This Bank has made wonderful progress in the last few years, and under this New Banking Law, and with the Federal Reserve Banks behind it, it should make even greater progress in the Future. Every dollar deposited in this Bank is not only protected by more than $300,000.00 of resources of this bank, and more than a million of resources of its stockholders, but it is also protected and secured, by the United States Government through the United States Reserve Banks, and no one can have any excuse from keeping his money buried or hid away in the House, when we have such a banking institution as this in our midst. The First National Bank has been for nearly two years, one. of the United States Depositories for Postal Savings. - It has been a depository for the City of Barbourville, for the United States Court, and for Knox County.

Hooray! The new Tariff is "stimulating industry." Twenty-four thousand head of American sheep in one flock alone have been sold to a Canadian, and in due time their wool and mutton will come back to us across the border under the democratic Free-Trade. Possibly we may buy these products a trifle cheaper, Wm. Joseph was duly adjurded bankrupt; and that the first meeting of creditors will be held as Lonsaid and then again we may not. But Jan. comes of the other 90 per cent. of our money? # CONVICTS FLEE; 7 DIE 11 SAILORS TRAPPED

EX-CONGRESSMAN THOMAS OF IL LINOIS SLAIN AND WOMAN SHOT DURING BATTLE.

THREE PRISONERS ARE DEAD

Inmates of State Penitentiary at Oklahoma Attempt to Shoot Way to Liberty. With Girl as Shield, and Engagement With Posse Follows, McAlester, Okla, Jan. 21.-As the result of an attempt on the part of three prisoners to escape from the state penitentiary here on Monday, seven men are dead and one woman is wounded.

The dead:

P. C. Oates, deputy sheriff.

P. C. Godfrey, guard. H. H. Decover, Bertillon man. Judge John R. Thomas, formerly congressman from Illinois.

China Reed, prisoner. Tom Lane, prisoner.

Charles Kuntz, prisoner. The injured:

Miss Mary Foster, prison stenographer; shot in leg. J. W. Martin, turnkey; shot in cheek. C. B. Woods, guard; shot in arm. Judge Thomas, a Muskogee attorney, was formerly congressman from Illinois, a federal judge and a member of the state code commission. He served five terms in congress from the Egypt (Ill.) district. Reed, Lane and Kuntz, the three prisoners, stormed the guard, shooting the three prison officials and Judge Thomas, who was in the penitentiary consulting a client.

The prisoners then rushed to the penitentiary office and at the point of revolvers forced F. C. Rice and Miss Mary Foster, the latter a penitentiary stenographer, to go with them to a buggy near the penitentiary and get in. A bullet from one of the prisoners' guns entered the leg of Miss Foster. She fainted in the buggy. An alarm was sounded and guards horseback were sent in pursuit of the fugitives.

In the meantime the sheriff of Pittsburg county had been notified and asked to quickly summon a posse of gunmen. Before the prisoners had gone more than a half mile from the penitentiary, however, they were overtaken by the penitentiary guards. A battle took place on the highway in which all three of the convicts were shot to death. Gov. Lee Cruce was notified of the outbreak over long distance by Warden Dick.

The first intimation prison officials had that anything was wrong was when the men grabbed the two guards and marched them in front of them into the penitentiary office. Deputy Warden Oates was in the office talking with Judge Thomas of Muskogee. As the men entered they pointed their pistols at Oates. Oates jumped to his feet and began to fire, but his aim was poor, because he was afraid of hitting the guards, who were serving as breastworks for the prisoners. At the second shot from Oates' pistol the men shot Oates and the others to death. While they were fleeing in the buggy, pursued by the mounted posse, Miss Foster fell out of the vehicle Then the guards closed in and shot the prisoners to death.

Delaware & Hudson Officials Submit to Union After Walkout Paralyzes System-Federal Mediator Agent.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 21.-The strike on the Delaware & Hudson, which began on Monday morning and by noon tied up the entire system, was settled at night. Railroad officials met the union's demands that they restore two discharged employes, James A. Lynch. an engineer, and F. A. Slade, a conductor, to their former positions. All strikers will return to duty at once. Five thousand were involved in the walkout.

G. W. W. Hanger, a member of the federal board of mediation and conciliation, brought about the agreement. A settlement was reached only after

Mr. Hanger had suggested to the com pany officials that they yield to the demands of the man. Arbitration, he declared, was impossible.

As soon as Clifford S. Siras, vicepresident and general manager of the railway, and union officials had signed the agreement orders were sent out for men to report for work as quickly as possible. Many crews that had been tied up at terminal points were notified by telegraph to resume their runs without reporting here.

Early on Monday the first body of men walked out. From then until noon engineers, conductors, trainmen, telegraph operators and towermen gradually quit, as the safety of passengers would permit. At noon it was estithe entire system was paralyzed. Shop workers and office employes alone remained on duty.

LITTLE FISTICUFF

JOHNSON'S BIG FIST LANDS ON ATTORNEY'S JAW-LAWYER DIGS IN WITH DUKES.

'Give Me My Revolver, I'll Kill That Fellow," Shouts Representative When Lawyer Makes Insinuation.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Washington .- The best little fisticuff pulled off at the capitol in many year took place unexpectedly in the cooms of the house committee on the District of Columbia. The participants were Representative Ben Johnson, of Kentucky, chairman of the committee, and John B. Shields, a Washington attorney, whom Johnson has intimated was a grafting lobbyist. This statement led Shields to insinuate that the Kentuckian was a liar, and then the bout began, Johnson starting it with a straight punch at Shields's eye, which landed squarely and with such force that the lawyer was knocked to the floor. It was a real and thrilling contest for about a minute, and was ended only when the congressman broke away from the clerks of his committee, who had endeavored to stop the fight, and ran toward an inner office shouting: "Get me my pistol; I'll kill him!"

The trouble arose from a smothered flame in the District committee. In the last congress Shields represented the street crossing police of Washington in an effort to place them on the same footing as other members of the force. There were rumors at the time that they had paid Shields a large fee for trying to secure the legislation. He was there in the interest of a bill to allow firemen and policemen to ride free on street cars.

Early Suffragette.

Militant minded women were known in England before the suffragettes, one of whom lies in Henry VII.'s chapel-Margaret, countess of Richmond. its builder's mother, with her brass effigy by Torrigiano. She hated the Turk, and she made, as Camden re ports, a sporting offer to the chival-rous of her day: "On the condition that princes of Christendom would combine themselves and march against the common enemy, the Turk, she would most willingly attend them and be their laundress in camp." That position of laundress to the crusaders would have been an easy one, for it was the fashion to make vows change no underclothing until the holy sepulcher was regained.

SCALP TROUBLE FOR YEARS

268 Harrison St., Elyria, Ohio.-"My case was a scalp trouble. I first no-ticed small bunches on my scalp which commenced to itch and I would scratch them and in time they got larger, forming a scale or scab with a little pus, and chunks of hair would come out when I would scratch them off. It caused me to lose most of my hair. It became thin and dry and lifeless. I was troubled for over ten years with it until it got so bad I was ashamed to go to a barber to get my hair cut. "I tried everything I could get hold of. ---- and ----, but received no cure until I commenced using Cuticura Soap and Ointment when the scale commenced to disappear. The way I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment was to wash my scalp twice a day with warm water and Cuticura Soap and rub on the Cuticura Ointment. I received benefit in a couple of weeks and was cured in two months."

An Expensive Officer.

It was a sorry day for Kentucky when she elected her present Secretary of State. Because of his failure to do his plain duty the Court of Appeals holds that the people of the State at the last election were powerless by their votes to initiat machneeded changes in the Constitution whereby a modern system of taxation could be secured and convicts could be put to work on the public roads. Thus the labor of years goes for naught, through the shortcoming of one official, and these vital reforms are indefinitely postponed. Indeed, they may be postponed forever unless we see to it that future Secretaries of State shall not defeat the popular will by gross neglect of their business.

It must be written in the history of Kentucky that S. F. Creceliue Secretary of State, proved the most expensive servant ever engaged by the taxpayers of Kentucky when he fell asleep on the switch.

Kentucky is notoriously in need of the improvement of the tax system which the constitutional amendment would have permitted if it had not been for the negligence of Mr. Crecelius. The fact that the tax system is about as bad as could be has been advertised in all corners of the country as a result of the campaign for its betterment, but if it had not been so advertised its defects would have been plain to ordisystem is a great handicap to progress. Its annual cost cannot be receoned, but the loss runs quickly into millions. |

It is bitterly disappointing to those who foot the bills to learn, through a decision of the Court of Appeals. that because Secretary of State Crecelius neglected the work for which he was paid the question of the constitutional amendment must be resubmitted at a considerable loss of time, at an enormous loss of money. and the matter which would have been closed trusted to the uncertainties of another election. ;

Finding fault with a Constitution which provides for the grotesque injustice of the defeat of the will of the people of Kentucky by the negligence of the Secretary of State. employed as their servant, is in order. But insemuch as the duty of the Secretary of State was to advertise the submission of the amendments ninety days before the election, and he failed to discharge his duty, it can only be said of him that he cost Kentucky a pretty penny when he loafed upon his job.

The provision of the Constitution is wrong, and extremely dangerous. A dishonest Secretary of State might accept a fortune as a fee to defeat an amendment by not advertising its submission. He might be impeached, but he could not be man to advertise the election except in the event of his determination not to do so being a matter of public ties a marrelous mass of mixed knowledge in time for a mendatory metaphor. CHAPTER I.

The Boarders.

Regarding the events of that rainy autumn evening at Mrs. Moore's boarding-house in the far West Twenties of New York, accounts differ somewhat-although not enough, after all, but what we may piece together a connected story. Until the great event. they were trivial. It was the reflected light of the tragedy which gave them their importance.

Most of the boarders remained indoors, since it was too wet in the early evening for faring out-of-doors with comfort. After dinner, Miss Harding and Miss Jones, stenographers, who shared a room-and-alcove on the second floor, entertained "company" in the parlor on the ground floor-two young office-mates who figure but dimly in this tale. These callers came at eight o'clock. A few minutes later Professor Noll joined them. Professor Noll was a diet delusionist. the assistant editor of a health-food magazine. He lived on the third floor, across the hall from Captain Hanska.

Miss Harding and Miss Jones had not arrived at that point with their young men where they wanted to visit alone. When Professor Noll entered and suggested music, they welcomed him. He sat down to the piano, there fore, and they all sang the foolish ephemeral songs of the picture-shows. Mrs. Moore stood in the hall for a time, listening. Once or twice she left momentarily to look after towels, furnace-heat and other housewifely cares. One of these tours took her to the top of the house, where Miss Estrilla, the lady sick with weak eyes, lived in a half-darkened room. She was a newcomer, this Miss Estrilla, and not yet well enough to take her meals in the dining-room. Miss Estrilla's brother. a slim, mercurial little Latin with an entertaining trick of the tongue, was reading to her by a shaded lamp, as he often did of evenings. When Mrs. Moore rejoined the others, they were singing full-voice.

On the stairs Mrs. Moore met Captain Hanska passing up from his late and solitary dinner. He was a little irregular about meals; and this evening he had come in, demanding dinner, after everything was cleared away. Half the boarding-house liked Captain Hanska, and half disliked him. Rather (and more accurately) all half-liked and half-hated him.

Before he started up the stairs he paused an instant at the parlor door and looked upon the singers. 'Come on in-the water's fine!

called Miss Harding jocularly.

Captain Hanska returned no answer. Apparently one of his sardonic gibes was on his lips, but he let it die there. And he turned away.

"He can certainly be a grouch when the wants to," said Miss Harding, as hear it just as plain!" though apologizing to the young men.

Fierce! exclaimed Miss Jones. And they resumed their singing. As Captain Hanska passed Mrs. Moore was bent and he gave no sign of recognition.

Mrs. Moore did not leave the parlor, she testified afterward, until Mr. Lawrence Wade called, asking for

We will shift now to Miss Harding; for a time let her mind be the crystal Moore came back and told Mr. Wade Mr. Estrilla appeared at the door of the parlor. Although they had seen temperament, a cheerful and winning smile, a nimble wit which lost nothing because of his quaint accent, and various, winsome, actor tricks which Mrs. Moore called "capers." At that noment they were singing "Yip-hiaddy-hi-ay," then in its first run. Mr. Estrilla, bundled up in hat and mackintosh, cut a curvet in the hall, kicked out one of his small Andalusian feet, joined a note of the chorus in a pleasant, light, tenor voice, changed to a falsetto tone which was plainly an imitation of Miss Harding's singing, and whirled toward the outer door. Miss Harding called:

"Come in and sing!" But Mr. Estrilla only pivoted through the door, alling:

"Buenos noches-yip-hi-addy-hi-ay!" Perhaps five minutes later, Miss Harding went up-stairs for a handkerchief. For a moment she was absentminded-a rare thing with her-so that instead of turning on the second floor, where her room was situated, she continued another flight and brought up, suddenly aware of her mistake, at the third-floor landing. Something held her there for a moment-the sound of high words from Captain Hanska's room. Miss Harding paused longer than necessary. She was an honorable girl enough, but the most honorable of us pay instinctive tribute to our curiosity.

"I tell you both I won't" came Captain Hanska's rather harsh voice.

"Oh, I think perhaps I can make you change your mind," came other accents which, Miss Harding reflected, went perfectly with the personality of Mr. Lawrence Wade.

"Some sort of a rumpus going on up there," said Miss Harding as she regained the parlor. Then remembering that she must account to Miss Jones for her presence on the third floorthe bachelor quarters of the establishment-she added vaguely, "You can

By this time, the open door, the fluttering lights, the screams and hysterics, had begun to attract the attenion of this and that late pedestrian A milkman pulled up, hitched, and entered; and then a night-faring printer. Presently the little knot in the street and the parlors was augmented by a voman, fully and rather over-luxuri North, although even Mrs. Mocre adously dressed, as though for the theater-a big picture hat and a black satin, fur-edged evening coat over a light gown which showed here and there the glitter of sequins. She was a large but shapely woman of uncertain age; yet so pleasing withal that the gathering loafers, even in the excitement of a murder, spared a few admiring glances at her face.

"I'm goin' up," she confided to her fellows. "I belong there-they need a sensible woman, from the way they're screechin'. You better not follow-you'll do no good an' it might git you involved." With surprising lightness, considering her bulk, she mounted the stairs.

The noise guided her to the focus and stood looking about with a pair Harding were about to ask this stranger to account for herself, when the doctor, half-dressed but carrying his bag, edged past the door. All turned to him. He looked but an instant on the face.

"He's dead." he said calmly. "Has any one notified the police? Has any one called up a Coroner?"

"I'll attend to that," volunteered the strange woman, with an air of perfect competence and command; "where's the phone-ground floor and top floor hall? All right; I'll use the top floor; that's nearer. Any particular Cordner, Doctor? Lipschutz? All right.'

In the hall, she met the regular patrolman, who had received the news at last. The limb of the law had forbidden the augmented crowd at the alone. The sight of this woman in Register.

"Listen," she said, "there's only a second. Never mind who I am. Look at this." She produced the old and worn piece of paper which she had drawn from her bag a minute before "To the police," it read. "Any matter that concerns the bearer, Mrs. Rosalie Le Grange, is to be referred to me. I request you to give her the greatest discretion.

"INSPECTOR MARTIN M'GEE."

"Not a word," pursued Rosalie Le Grange. "Now mind I didn't see this thing, an' I don't know as much about it as you. But it's your job to tip me off to the reserves as soon as they come-make them understand that they ain't to stop me whatever I do. "My seester is better," he said. "Oh, can I assist?" And while he helped the men to cover the body, he listened to scattered explanations from the women.

Now the reserves had come; and ifter them, the Coroner and the detectives. They cleared out the house, holding only those who seemed to them pertinent witnesses. At a signal from Rosalie Le Grange they detained her for a time, on the ground that she had arrived suspiciously early. The first unorganized search for the criminal simmered down to Tommy mitted that he had entered only a minute before the body was discovered. In the midst of the investigation, a new quandary presented itself. The house was to be sealed while the police investigated. The innocent would have to find some other dwelling-place. That suited her, Miss Harding remarked; she wouldn't sleep there again; whereupon Mrs. Moore, declaring she was ruined, fell again to weeping. And suddenly she who called herself Madame Le Grange stepped forward into the huddled distressed group.

"I haven't introduced myself," she said, with easy masterful calm. "but I've just opened the house at 442 as a boarding-house. We can move your trunks to-morrow. Mechanically, Miss Harding obeyed, and then Miss Jones. Suddenly Mr. Estrilla, who had been ministering to Mrs. Moore by the door, spoke up and asked:

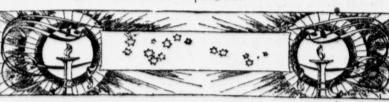

"My seester, too?"

"She's sick, ain't she?" inquired Mrs. Le Grange, as if for an instant that gave her pause. "Then the poor thing needs it worst of all!" she answered her own argument. "Come on!" She dashed away, lightly in spite of her bulk, Estrilla following.

BUSINESS NOT TO BE HAMPERED. SAYS WILSON

President Outlines Plan for Regulation of Trusts.

SQUARE BUSINESS WITH LAW

Explicit Definition of the Policy and Meaning of Existing Laws Is of First Importance-Antagonism Between Business and Government. Is Now Over.

Washington, Jan. 20. - President Wilson delivered the following message today before a joint session of the two houses of congress:

"Gentlemen of the congress:

"In my report 'On the State of the Union,' which I had the privilege of reading to you on the 1st of December last, I ventured to reserve for discussion at a later date the subject of additional legislation regarding the very difficult and intricate matter of trusts and monopolies. The time now seems opportune to turn to that great question; not only because the currency legislation, which absorbed your attention and the attention of the country in December, is now disposed of, but also because opinion appears to be clearing about us with singular rapidity in this other great field of action. In the matter of the currency it cleared suddenly and very happily after the much-debated act was passed; in respect to the monopolies which have multiplied about us and in regard to the various means by which they have been organized and maintained, it seems to be coming to a clear and all but universal agreement in anticipation of our action, as if by the way of preparation, making the way easier to see and easier to set out upon with confidence and without confusion of counsel.

Business of Interpretation.

"Legislation has its atmosphere like everything else and the atmosphere of accommodation and mutual understanding which we now breathe with so much refreshment is matter of sincere congratulation. It ought to make our task very much less difficult and embarrassing than it would have been had we been obliged to continue to act amidst the atmosphere of suspicion and antagonism which has so long made it impossible to approach such questions with dispassionate fairness. Constructive legislation, when successful, is always the embodiment of convincing experience and of the mature public opinion which finally springs out of that experience. Legslation is a business of interpretation. not of origination; and it is now plain what the opinion is to which we must give effect in this matter. It is not recent or hasty opinion. It springs out of the experience of a whole generation. It has clarified itself by long contest, and those who for a long time pattled with it and sought to change it are now frankly and honorably yielding to it and seeking to conform their actions to it.

"The great businessmen who organized and financed monopoly and those who administered it in actual everyday transactions have year after year. until now, either denied its existence or justified it as necessary for the eftective maintenance and development of the vast business processes of the country in the modern circumstances of trade and manufacture and finance: but all the while opinion has made head against them. The average businessman is convinced that the ways of liberty are also the ways of peace and the ways of success as well; and at last the masters of business on the great scale have begun to yield their preference and purpose, perhaps their judgment also, in honor able surrender.

Will Not Hamper.

What we are purposing to do, there fore, is happily not to hamper or interfere with business as enlightened business men prefer to do tt, or in any sense to put it under the ban. The antagonism between business and government is over. We are now about to give expression to the best business judgment of America, to what we know to be the business conscience and honor of the land. The government and business men are ready to statute in such terms as will pracmeet each other half way in a common effort to square business methods with both public opinion and law. The best informed men of the business world condemn the methods and processes and consequences of monopoly as we condemn them; and the instinctive judgment of the vast majority of business men everywhere goes with them. We shall now be their spokesman. That is the strength of our position and the sure prophecy of what will en- | commission. sue when our reasonable work is done.

"When serious contest ends, when men unite in opinion and purpose, those who are to change their ways of thoughtful and patriotic men would few, as slight, as easy and simple busic and publicity, as a clearing house for ness resadjustments as possible in the the facts by which both the public now about to write the additional artiness resadjustments as possible in the circumstances, nothing essential distinguished, nothing torn up by the roots, hess undertakings afford be guided, no parts rent asunder which can be and instrumentality for doing prosperity."

understood that our object is not to unsettle business or anywhere seriously to break is established courses athwart. On the contrary, we desire the laws we are now about to pass to "Proceedings of the laws we are now about to pass to "Proceedings of the laws we are now about to pass to "Proceedings of the laws we are now about to pass to "Proceedings of the laws we are now about to pass to "Proceedings of the laws we are now about to pass to "Proceedings of the laws we are now about to pass to "Proceedings of the laws of the law be the bulwarks and safeguards of industry against the forces that have disturbed it. What we have to do can be done in a new spirit, in thoughtful moderation, without revolution of an untoward kind.

Private Monopoly Intolerable

"We are all agreed that private monopoly is indefensible and intoierable, and our program is founded upon that conviction. It will be a comprehensive but not a radical or unacceptable program, and these are its items, the changes which opinion deliberately sanctions and for which business waits.

"It awaits with acquiesence in the first place for laws which will effectually prohibit and prevent such interlockings of the personnel of the directorates of great corporationsbanks and railreads, industrial, commercial and public service bodies—as in effect result in making those who borrow and those who lend practically one and the same, those who sell and those who buy but the same persons trading with one another under different manies and in different com-binations, and those whose affect to compete, in fact, partners and masters of some whole field of business. Sufficient time should be allowed, of course, in which to effect these changes of organization without inconveniencs or confusion.

"Such a prohibition will work much more than a mere negative good by correcting the serious evils which have arisen because, for example, the men who have been the directing spirits of the great investment banks have usurped the place which belongs to independent industrial management working in its behoof. It will bring new men, new energies, a new spirit of initiative, new blood into the management of our great business enterprises. It will open the field of industrial development and origination to scores of men who have been obliged to serve when their abilities entitled them to direct. It will immensely hearten the young men coming on and will greatly enrich the business activities of the whole coun-

Harm and Injustice Done.

"In the second place, business men, as well as those who direct public affairs now recognize, and recognize with painful clearness, the great harm and injustice which has been done to many, if not all, of the great railroad systems of the country by the way in which they have been financed and their own distinctive interests subordinated to the interests of the men who financed them and of other business enterprises , which those men wished to promote.

"The country is ready therefore to accept and accept with relief as well as approval, a law which will confer upon the interstate commerce commission the power to superintend and regulate the financial operations by which the railroads are henceforth to be supplied with the money they need for their proper development to meet the rapidly growing requirements of the country for increased and im- quire the owners of stock, when their proved facilities of transportation. Upon this question those who are chiefly responsible for the actual management and operation of the railroads have spoken very plainly and very earnestly, with a purpose we ought to be quick to accept it. It will be one step and a very important one, toward the necessary separation of the business of production from the business of tramportation. "The business of the country awaits also, has long awaited and has suffered because it could not obtain further and more explicit legislative definition of the policy and meaning of the existing anti-trust laws. Nothing right to found their suits for redress hampers business like uncertainty. upon the facts and judgments proved Notking daunts or discourages it like the necessity to take chances, to run the risk of falling under the condemnation of the law before it can make sure just what the law is.

Definition Now Possible.

"Surely we are sufficiently familiar with the getual processes and methods of monopoly and of the many hurtful restraints of thate to make definition possible, at any rate up to the limits of what experience has dis-closed. These practices, being now abundantly disclosed, can be explicitly and item by item, forbidden by tically eliminate, uncertainty, the law itself and the penalty being made equally plain.

"And the business men of the country desire something more than conscience. that the menace of legal process in these matters be made explicit and intelligible. They desire the advice, the definite guidance and information which can be supplied by an administrative body, an interstate trade

"The opinion of the country would new things for which the country is instantly approve of such a commission. 'It would not wish to see it empowered to make terms with monopbusiness, joining with those who ask oly or in any sort to assume control for the change, it is possible to effect of business, as if the government it in the way in which prudent and made itself responsible. left in wholesome communation. For justice to business where the process tunately, no measures of sweeping or es of the courts or the natural forces novel change are necessary. It will be inadequate to adjust the remedy to the wrong in a way that will meet all the equities and circumstances of the "Producing industries, for example which have passed the point up to which combination may be consistent with the public interest and the freedom of trade, cannot always be dissected into their component oaits as readily as railroad companies or similar organizations can be. Their dissolution by ordinary legal process may oftentimes involve financial consequences likely to overwhelm the se curity market and bring upon it breakdown and confusion. There ought to be an administrative commission capable of directing and shaping such corrective processes, not only in aid of the courts but also by independent suggestion, if necessary,

Make Punishment Certain.

"Inasmuch as our object and the spirit of our action in these matters is to meet business half way in its processes of self-correction and disturb its legitimate course as little as possible, we ought to see to it, and the judgment of practical and sagacious men of affairs everywhere would applaud us if we did see to it that penalties and punishments should fall, not upon business itself, to its confusion and interruption, but upon the individuals who use the instrumental ities of business to do things which public policy and sound business practice condemn. Every act of business is done at the command or upon the initiative of some ascertainable person or group of persons. These should be held individually responsible and the punishment should fall upon them, not upon the business organization of which they make illegal use. It should be one of the main objects of our legislation to divest such persons of their corporate cloak and deal with them as with those who do not represent their corporations, but merely by deliberate intention break the law. Business men the country through would. I am sure, applaud us if we were to take effectual steps to see that the officers and directors of great bodies were prevented from bringing them and the business of the country into disrepute and danger.

"Other questions remain which will need very thoughtful and practical treatment. Enterprises, in these modern days or great individual fortunes, are oftentimes interlocked, not by being under the control of the same directors, but by the fact that the greater part of their corporate stock is owned by a single person or group of persons who are in some way intimately related in interest.

Holding Companies.

"We are agreed, I take it, that holding companies should be prohibited, but what of the controlling private ownership of individuals or actually co-operative groups of individuals? Shall the private owners of capital stock be suffered to be themselves in effect holding companies? We do not wish, I suppose, to forbid the purchase of stocks by any person who pleases to buy them in such quantities as he can afford, or in any way arbitrarily to limit the sale of stocks to bonafide purchasers. Shall we revote? This question I venture for your consideration.

"There is another matter in which imperative considerations of justice and fair play suggests thoughtful remedial action. Not only do many of the combinations effected or sought to be effected in the industrial world work an injustice upon the public in general; they also directly and reriously injure the individuals who are put out of business in one fair way or another by the many dislodging and exterminating forces of combination. I hope that we shall agree in giving private individuals who claim to have been injured by these processes the and entered in suits by the government where the government has upon its own initiative sued the combinations complained of and won its suit, and that the statute of limitations shall be suffered to run against such litigants only from the date of the conclusion of the government's action.

Individual Justice.

"It is not fair that the private litigant should be obliged to set up and establish again the facts which the government has proved. He cannot afford, he has not the power to make use of such processes of inquiry as the government has command of. Thus shall individual justice be done while the processes of business are rectified and squared with the general

"I have laid the case before you, no doubt as it lies in your own mind, as it lies in the thought of the country. What must every candid man say of the suggestions I have laid before you. of the plain obligations of which I have reminded you? That these are not prepared? No; but that they are old things now familiar, and must of course be undertaken if we are to square our laws with the thought and desire of the country. Until these satisfied. They are in these things

LESSON FOR JANUARY 25

SERVING JESUS.

LESSON TEXT-Luke 8:1-3: #:57-62: 0:38-42.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Inasmuch as ye did t unto one of these my brethren, even he least, ye did it unto me."—Matt.

The first section of our lesson text has no connection with the other two. It is taken from a time several months previous to the time of the Perean ministry and was undoubtedly chosen as an indication of the company who raveled with Jesus and his disciples, and who provided for his needs. We must remember that Jesus was not supported by a board, a church, nor by some philanthropically inclined fellow citizen. It is to the second two sections therefore that we devote our chief attention.

Different Classes. I. Those who would follow Jesus, 9:57-62. Read carefully Matt. 8:19-22. Three different classes are here represented: (1) The impulsive follower (v. 57, 58). This is the man who is moved by a sudden desire to accompany this marvelous Teacher, but like the man in the parable, does not sit down and count the cost ere he starts to build his house. This thought is emphasized when we read (Matt. 8:19) that this man was a scribe, one who would not be expected to make such a resolve. He must have been deeply stirred by what he had seen and heard in the life of Jesus. Such a resolve promised well, but it is soon revealed to him that he did not realize what was involved in his promise (v. 58) Jesus showed the man that to go "whithersoever" with him means to share his experiences, his fare, his quarters, and to receive the same liver and purify the blood. Adv. treatment he received, 2 Tim. 3:12. It is a mistake to tell folk that the road of righteousness is a primrose path. The road of disobedience is a rough one, as the man who went to Jericho found, still the road of righteousness is a narrow one, Matt. 7:13, 14. Every follower of Jesus must be willing to take what he took, and to receive what he received, John 15:20; 1 Pet.

This sentence (v. 58) has done more to give us a comprehension of the earthly surroundings of our Lord than any other in the gospels, 2 Cor. 8:9. (2) The procrastinating follower (v. 59). Jesus did not forbid the first man, he simply showed him what was involved. This man, however, Jesus invited to a place as disciple-learner. That he was willing to accept is evident, only he was not yet quite ready, I will, but-." It is not at all probable that this man's father was awaiting burial; had his father but just died, and awaiting burial, Jesus would not have prevented. Rather he was indicating a father about to die and that he would follow after his father's death. Hence the sharp words of the Master, "Let the dead bury the dead." A proper duty, a sacred duty, but not so proper nor so sacred as to have pre-6:33; 10:37.

Ever Ready to Serve.

II. Those who did follow Jesus, 10:38-42. We now turn to consider this little company who were ever ready to serve our Master. From v. 58 Now Located at 119 W. 7th Street we know that not every home was open to receive Jesus as was this one in Bethany, John 11:1. Though this was Martha's home (10:38), and therefore she felt the burden of hospitality. yet she did not hear the word as did her sister Mary, Mark 4:19. Martha was occupied with duty and Mary, with Jesus. Martha was occupied with many things, Mary was occupied with the "one thing needful." The result was that Martha was "distracted" (R. V.), while Mary was at rest. Jesus wants his disciples, his followers, to sit at his feet and to learn of him. He knows all about duty's dull demand, but the one thing needful is, first of all, to learn of him. Martha's love prompted the service, but there was doubtless much pride that accompanied it. Jesus, as we have seen, was not cumbered with much comfort, and tt is doubtful that he was desirous of 4 big dinner. Jesus does, however, commend communion with himself as being, "that good part." Afterwards, when death inveded that circle it was when death invaded that circle, it was Martha that had the most intimate dealing with our Lord, see John, chapter 11, hence we conclude that she learned on this day the lesson Jesus sought to teach, viz., that in the life of quiet communion (Isa. 30:15) we shall receive that strength that is absolutely essential, if we are to serve him acceptably. We must not allow the daily, legitimate demands of duty to interfere with a life of full, frae, fellowship with the Master.

Summary-It has never been recorded that Jesus ever complained of the hardships of life, yet he had his intimates who were glad to minister to his needs. The call to companionship with Christ, the call, "follow me," is the most stupendous program yet presented to man. The perfect disciple, as well as the ideal woman, is the one who is a blend of the divergent characters of Martha and Mary. It is at the feet of Jesus we are to receive that squipment which is necessary for efective service. "Making excuses takes nuch time that had better be put inte making good."

GO TO WESTERN CANADA NOW

The opportunity of securing free homesteads of 160 acres each, and the low priced lands of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, will soon have passed.

Canada offers a hearty welcome to the Settler, to the man with a family looking for a home; to the farmer's son, to the renter, to all who wish to live under better conditions. Canada's grain yield in 1913 is the talk of the world. Luxuriant Grasses give cheap fodder for large herds; cost of raising and fattening for market is a trifle.

The sum realized for Beef, Butter, Milk and Cheese will pay fifty per cent on the investment.
